

TWO THOUSAND WILL DISCUSS SCHOOL HYGIENE

International Congress Large-est Ever Held for This Purpose.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS
WERE FIRST SUBJECT

Congress Will Take up Spread
of Disease Through Schools.

Buffalo, Aug. 26.—Scientists and educators from all parts of the world assembled here today for the fourth international congress on school hygiene,
which numbers numbered about 2,000.
Welcome was extended by distinguished representatives of the nation, state and city.

"Those who engage in the work of human uplift are the true leaders," Dr. Wilson of the labor department told the delegates on behalf of President Wilson and congress, "are frequently picked up as dreamers but the dreamers of tomorrow are the practical men of tomorrow. Your dreams and outlooks of the future must be the practical men of tomorrow. You are the practical men of tomorrow."

School buildings and their equipment
was the general topic of the sectional meetings of the afternoon, and other subjects were more or less included in the representatives of four nations.

Spread of Disease.

Dr. John C. Farrel, of the smoke-falter ministry, and others of similar status in a paper spoke of the spread of intestinal disease through the rural school, declared the work done in the south, in connection with the hook worm disease, made it a real problem.

Dr. Eugene H. Porter, commissioner of health of the state of New York, declared that the spread of phthisis is essentially false. Millions spent on the curing of diseases might be saved if a lesser sum were spent for prevention. He advocated the punishment by law of those who deliberately refuse to cultivate rules of health.

A general public meeting last night was addressed by Dr. Chas. W. Elliott, president of Harvard University, and Sir James Dunn, president of the Canadian National Research Council. School life in the country, Sir James declared, offers a perfect safety valve for the young and timid, and so far as possible the influence of the group should be exercised to counteract the rust from country to city.

KILLED BY OWN GUN.

Lethbridge, Aug. 26.—The 22-year-old son of Ezra Hanson was found at dusk Sunday night dead as a result of a self-inflicted bullet wound. The boy had been missing from his home, three miles east of Kimball, since Wednesday of last week. The body was found by the water's edge, a short distance from his black.

AGAINST USE OF ALCOHOL.

Ottawa, Aug. 26.—The international congress of neurology, at which 200 nations are represented by over 100 delegates, has voted to prohibit the introduction by Dr. H. Best, inviting the various governments, in view of the disastrous results of the use of alcohol, to ban
the colonies to prompt and vigorous measures to put an end to the evil common to all peoples.

"WORSE THAN AN IDLE RUMOR."

Winnipeg, Aug. 26.—Sir Edmund Robin yesterday gave out the following statement with regard to the Ottawa dispatch mentioning that he had been invited to Lord Stratford in the Canadian high commissionership
of the old country:

"I am a Canadian citizen and absolutely unvarnished. There is no public position on earth I would accept in lieu of the one I hold."

OLD SORE HEALED IN SIX DAYS

Nearly Impossible to Heal Skin.
Badly Hurt. Sore, Red and Inflamed, Could Not Sleep. Cutcura Soap and Ointment Healed,

Bowman River, Manitoba.—When I was thirteen years of age I got my skin badly hurt and when it became attached to the bone, the length of time it would injure it and make it impossible to heal. The sore would be very red and inflamed and the edges
would be raised and become crusted.
When extra sore I could not sleep at night on account of this pain. I always used a castor oil soap and rubbed the skin from the ankle to the knee. For a number of years
I used stickle plasters, then got a salve.
I saw the Cutura Soap and Ointment and purchased some and for a sample and purchased some more and in six days the sore was healed completely." (Signed) James Edwards, June 21, 1912.

NO FORMALITY AT OPENING OF TORONTO FAIR

Exhibition This Year is People's Fair and Usual Pomp Lacking.

PREMIER MAKES A PATRIOTIC SPEECH

Reminds People of Toronto of Responsibilities Entailed by Greatness of Canada's Resources.

Toronto, Aug. 26.—Under auspices of the most favorable character
the International Exhibition yesterday
entered upon its 50th year, the moment
the Duke of Connaught opened the fair
in a felicitous manner declared. "This exhibit is for every man, every element combined to make the noteworthy genius of a great institution."

Opening day brings with it the usual formality of ceremony and last night
the Duke of Connaught opened the fair was especially in evidence. This was the people's exhibition and the grand opening was made by the first commoner of Canada. Nothing more pretentious than a guard of honor from the visiting cadet corps was used for military display.

"On a day such as this," said Mr.
Borden, "there is no consideration of order, of race or of rank. Under the auspices of our common citizenship we justly proud of our liberties and of our institutions by which they are secured, rejoice in the splendor of our country's inheritance and look forward with the highest confidence to even more wonderful progress and development. Let us not fail to realize the responsibility which rests upon us
to keep the vastness of the heritage which it is our pleasure to entrust to the Canadian people."

EMBODIED IN THE PORTFOLIO.

Mr. Borden, in receipt of an application for the formation of a board of conciliation
and arbitration, and the industrial disputes investigation act, and the arbitration
laws in dispute between the Grand Trunk Western railway company and its railroad employees, has appointed Mr. J. Lounsbury and Justice Bertie minister of foreign affairs, C. E. L. Borden, minister of agriculture, and Justice Bertie minister of finance.

Cured My Cough In One Night

Relieved Me of a Throat Weakness
That Resisted Every Treatment

"SUFFERERS, FOLLOW MY PLAN."

After being loaded down with a chronic cough for months, you can imagine my relief in finding even a relief from it," writes Mrs. A. A.
Tucker, of Monson, Mass., U. S. A. "I tried every treatment known, an irritative throat weakness and asthma, and simply did nothing, even medicine I ever had was discouraged until a friend recommended Catherzone so strongly that I breathe in the vapor from my druggist. I breathed in the vapor every minute five vapors hour. After one full day I was better and next morning I was well. Now I am cured, my throat weakness is gone and I am well. For two years ago, with the aid of Catherzone, I have been perfectly well. I have also used Dr. Hamilton's new formula with grand results, and consider your remedies have done wonders for me."

Thousands of wonderful cures are reported every year. Catherzone does all that is claimed for it and is certainly most efficient for colds, bronchitis,
asthma, catarrh, sinusitis and catarrh.
The two month's treatment (one size 50¢, sample size 25¢, at

THE LUDICROUS SHORT CIRCUIT OF THE ESPIONAGE DEPARTMENT.

In municipal affairs the limit of the ludicrous has surely now been reached with the disclosure by Sergeant Edwards, who recited his conversation with Chief Carpenter to show that the real reason why he was dismissed from the police force was not that he talked to the commissioners, which he denies having ever done, but because he followed the commissioners' order and told what he knew of the shortcomings of the police department to Inspector Buck.

The situation is replete with so many delightful inconsistencies that it would furnish the theme for a comic opera. On the one hand we have the mayor fighting with the power plant superintendent and the engineer because the men of their departments have notified the commissioners that they will not give secret testimony against their immediate bosses, as required by the now-famous espionage letter, while on the other hand we have the mayor, after having gone into the matter carefully with the chief of police, assuring the public that the chief did exactly the right thing when he dismissed the sergeant of police for having given to Inspector Buck the very information demanded by the espionage letter so far as it related to the affairs of the police department. Then in the case of Alderman Calder, who declared that the refusal of the power house employees to conform with the espionage letter was insubordination for which they should be immediately dismissed, we have a situation in which Alderman Calder, to be consistent, must now declare that the man to be dismissed is the chief of police, whom the mayor vouches for as a most competent official.

Then there is the strange inconsistency on the part of Inspector Buck himself, who, in his letter to the civic employees, informs them that whatever information they may be able to give as to the shortcomings of their departments will be regarded as confidential, following which the information with regard to the police department appears in the Bulletin before it even reaches the mayor. Of course Inspector Buck may offer the defense that to publish a thing in the Bulletin could not in any way be construed into giving it publicity, but this defense would scarcely be good as the intent is there nevertheless.

The whole sum and substance of the matter is that the attempt to establish a secret service department through the agency of a bright young hardware clerk from Chicago, with a correspondence-school education in municipal science, has led the administration into the position where they encounter so many short circuits that they are in danger of becoming the laughing stock of the city.

The administration may "fire" Inspector Buck; they will probably have to do so to save their face. But to dismiss the whole city staff would not relieve the situation of its ridiculousness. In the language of vaudeville, it is to laugh.

THE TWO EVILS OF WHICH HUERTA WOULD CHOOSE NEITHER.

Like Davy Crockett's coon, Huerta decides at the last moment that he had better come down.

In spite of the fact that an insistent demand is being made by interested influences upon President Wilson and Secretary Bryan to commence immediate hostilities against Mexico, it commences to look as though the heads of United States government may be able to do what they originally set out to do, namely, restore peace in Mexico, without the necessity for sending an army across the Rio Grande. The Wilson attitude quite evidently is that the thing that will make for peace in Mexico is representative government. If Huerta accedes to this request by stepping out of the way and permitting Wilson to be elected to hold the necessary interview with him, he disappears.

If he refuses, the business of the United States will be to force him out of the way and to make the arrangements for the election of his successor. This is the position that, if he accedes to the Wilson demand, he gets out voluntarily. If he rejects it, he is to be ultimately forced out anyway. Under the circumstances the situation presents to Huerta what, from his point of view, must look like a choice between two evils. His delay in answering is an omen, of the fact that he would like to choose neither.

THE TRUST CONCEPTION OF THE TARIFF ARRANGEMENT.

Senator Kenyon, in the United States senate, moves in amendment to the tariff bill that the trust be arranged that all trust made goods would be automatically transferred to the free list. The amendment comes so close to the point that it is not likely to find much favor in a body such as the United States senate.

The trust is the natural product of the tariff. Without the tariff it could scarcely come into existence, at least in the form that it would be able to artificially control the price and supply of the commodity of which it is engaged in manufacture. The theory of protection is that it safeguards industries from foreign competition until the time when they are able to stand alone. An industry which has advanced to the stage of becoming a trust naturally will be admitted to have received all the protection for which it is entitled even on the infant industry assumption. The Kenyon theory is that the tariff should then be automatically suspended when the necessity for it has ceased. But the consideration which will make the Kenyon amendment unpopular with the owners of the dear little infant industries of the trust is that the trusts no longer regard the tariff as a temporary arrangement to permit industries to get a foothold, but as a permanent arrangement behind which they have a vested right to keep the public for all the traffic will stand.

POLITICAL ECONOMISTS WHOSE ECONOMY LIMPS.

For the four months ending July 31 the total exports of the dominion of Canada were one hundred and seventeen million while for the same period the total imports were two hundred and twenty-five million.

According to the theory of the balance of trade, Canada, at this rate, should be going "in the hole," to the outside world, so rapidly that the shemps should be in possession of the national capital already. But somehow or another Canada is not going broke so rapidly that anyone would be able to notice it, and Great Britain, which has been importing more than she has been exporting for several generations back, is the richest country in the world. Some of the political economists will have to try again.

HUERTA LAYING UP. TROUBLE FOR HIMSELF.

Following immediately upon the decision of Japan to refuse to entertain General Felix Diaz, the representative of the Huerta government, France takes the same course, making the third great nation to assume the attitude of President Wilson, which is, tacitly, that the Huerta government is not a government until it has established to the satisfaction of the world that it has the consent of the people governed.

Meanwhile Huerta refuses to treat with the permanent representatives of United States sent across the line to advise Huerta privately—seeing that they cannot advise him publicly without thereby recognizing him—to hold an election and have himself properly installed as president.

Huerta is quite evidently laying up for himself a large amount of trouble at the finish of which it is quite probable that there will be no President Huerta, and there may be no Mexico.

JUST PARAGRAPHS

Employees of the B. C. Electric at Vancouver have discovered that every time dividends go up their wages come down. They should turn this information to account by buying large blocks of stock in the company. Then they would be in a position to appreciate the triumphs of private ownership.

Sulzer has given a new twist to the proceedings down at Albany by asking that the Tammany influence be indicted for conspiracy. If Sulzer could prove that Tammany was ever anything but a conspiracy he would be doing something to brag about.

TODAY IN DOMINION HISTORY.

The bombardment of Fort Frontenac by the English was commenced 155 years ago today and quickly resulted in the capture of that French stronghold at the foot of Lake Ontario, at the present city of Kingston, and was built by Frontenac in 1673. After the defeat of the English at Quebec, who had been driven out in 1759, Col. John Bradstreet urged Abercrombie to send an expedition against Frontenac. The principal appeal was the commander, Bradstreet, who had been appointed to the purpose and pursued it, Bradstreet in command. The army was composed principally of provincials, British regulars, and a body of savages, crossing the lake to bathe, having with him 300 Indians. After much difficulty, the army and its eight canoes and two small boats had reached the fort, and there were only 110 prisoners. The garrison included 60 canons, 16 mortars, provision and military stores, a large number of small arms, and nine armed vessels.

Bradstreet, the commander of the victorious army, had served in the expedition against the French in 1745 and later was lieutenant-governor of St. John's, Newfoundland. He was commissioned a major-general shortly before his death in 1781. In 1764 he made a tour through the Indian country, and concluded treaties of peace with various chiefs by which the redskins were bound to render aid to the English troops and, in return, were promised English protection.

Bradstreet, as adjutant, fought at Bunker Hill.

There's only one thing I can think on to do—do it!

Now one thing, and I'd do it, I swear!

Although, it is true, 'tis old as 'tis new—

Just kiss her and kiss her, however she fare,

And take ye no care whatever she swear,

Whatever she swear, sir, or do,

For women be women, and care not a hair!

For the man who don't care, however they who would win 'em, foun' weather or fair,

Must fly them not follow, and they persevere;

And that is why, let me tell you, to woe!

The way, sir, to woe!

The Don't Care Girl

The "Don't Care Girl"—a dashing creature of dimples and disdain—is apparently discovering a new mode of dress.

She wears the latest and the most expensive style of clothes, but always she just "slasses" them on, and the more untidy she appears the better she feels.

This "don't care" young woman's dress is becoming daily more prominent, and there are signs that it will have an even greater vogue in the autumn.

The introduction of brilliant colors into a woman's dress has resulted in an excess of colors which are now worn without regard for good taste.

These "color" touch is seen in the new hats ornate. The brilliantly-colored comb—the slide of time horn—takes the place of the simple straw hat.

So simple again is the present style of hairdressing that it suggests in many cases that the wearer has just got out of bed.

And, further, to obtain the necessary bizarre effect, the "I don't care" girl wears all kinds of head ornaments in different positions and just happens around her head.

This simple regime has become particularly pronounced with regard to the free-and-easy hats now worn. Crowds of young women are wearing the French students cap in the brightest and most vivid colors, and these are as well all kinds of the Tamboys caps.

The Tamboys cap is a copy of that worn by the students of Paris for the autumn. This is made in all kinds of colored silk stockings and includes yellows and greens.

A PRETTY LINGERIE BLOUSE.

THE lingerie blouse makes an especial appeal at this season and this model is unusually attractive. There is a deep, shaped yoke in the front and tucks being tucked in groups, then give fullness. The blouse has a high neck and long sleeves as shown on the figure or wide square neck and elbow sleeves. Here the material is fine lace, with banding and the yoke and cuffs are hand-sewn with hand embroidery.

If the hand work is not wanted, all over embroidery can be substituted.

Substituted Crepe de Chine is being much used for waist coats this year, and this model is excellent for that material.

Partial contents of Webster's New Illustrated Dictionary

Based upon Noah Webster's Dictionary, revised and brought UP TO DATE in accordance with the most eminent English and American authorities on spelling, pronunciation and definition, and especially designed to meet the popular demand for a CONVENIENT, complete and RELIABLE Dictionary.

It contains all the words of the English language that are not peculiarly appropriate to a Dictionary of technical terms; it gives the spelling and pronunciation of Plurals, and indicates the use of capital and small letters in writing every word in the vocabulary; it gives the Past Tense and the Particles of all verbs not regularly formed by the addition of -d, -ed, and -ing; the Pronunciation of each word is plainly indicated by phonetic spelling; the Definitions, comprehensive, yet concise, are accurate and reliable.

Preceding the Dictionary proper will be found a treatise on ABBREVIATIONS of the Parts of Speech and their grammatical significance. Also a discourse on the Origin, Composition and Derivation of the English Language.

The ANALYSIS of the "Principles of Grammar" will fill a long-felt want in promoting the correctness of speech, both spoken and written.

Under the head of "SIMPLIFIED SPELLING" will be found the rules as adopted by the SIMPLIFIED SPELLING BOARD, and giving a complete list of 300 words spelled in two ways, of which the Board says, "Choose the simpler spelling."

Finally is given a complete KEY TO PRONUNCIATION.

Surprising results are obtained in looking up the Spelling, Pronunciation and Definition of the

which have been incorporated into our language only yesterday, as it were. For instance: Aviator, Biplane, Brainstorm, Cordite, Okapi, Carburetter, Dictograph, Hookworm, Krypton, Lettergram, Nickelodeon, Osterizer, Stovane, Taxicab, Zemule, Hangar, Equilibrator, etc.

Printed on another page, clipped on consecutive days and expense bonus amount herein set opposite the style selected (which covers the items of the cost of packing, express from the factory, checking, clerk hire and other necessary EXPENSE items).

GEORGE FRASER IS BACK FROM TRIP TO GREAT NORTH

Says that Work of Cornwall
Party Will Show Land
True Light.

WONDERFUL RESULT OF THE MOVING PICTURES

Fur Catch Last Year Very Good, but the Rabbit Crop
Decreasing—Money Shortage Delays Development.

At All Best Places

The Hudson's Bay steamer Althabesa River, having on board the fur catch of the northern ports for 1912, arrived at Athabasca shortly afternoon yesterday with 99 passengers from points in the north. Among the passengers was a number of passengers that the transport has ever carried. That the Canadian Northern train was just pulling out as the boat docked and the only steamer passenger ship in the world was George Fraser of the Cornwall party.

"We had a very interesting and comfortable trip," said Mr. Fraser, "and on our return home will give the public another idea of the work of the Dominion than has been conveyed by the numerous excellent books and pamphlets which have been written about the north. The moving pictures gives a condition as it actually exists, without the slightest tinge of color. They were taken by Mr. Luperti of the Essoyman just as they came up, and in his effort to exaggerate, they will show the animals in greater numbers than can be portrayed by the most able writers."

Some of the pictures may not prove so romantic or picturesque as one might expect, but they will tell the true story for there were no rehearsals or preparations. Unfortunately we reached some of the most interesting posts and scenes before we had time to take them, but the result will be very satisfactory and also highly complimentary to Mr. Cornwall who made the trip possible. It was absolutely the best part of the bearing and his "Wait until I get back" there became a byword with us before we were half way to McPherson.

TWO SEVERE STORMS

"We had two severe storms, 50 miles below McPherson, on Monday morning, making a record run. Our trip from McMurray to Grand Rapids was uncomfortable at times, owing to two severe rain storms, one of which lasted for 36 hours, necessitating one day's loss of time.

"We had more than a dozen children born during our stay, and a number at the Cassiar Goldfield, where a son was born to Mrs. C. T. Christie, wife of the Hudson's Bay company's agent at Fort St. John. There was no physician on board, but the care bestowed upon Mrs. Christie by Mrs. Lebarge and other ladies aboard the transport was evidenced by her delivery of the baby in the Great Bear's porridge four days after the baby was born."

"That we catch in the north last year was very good, according to all accounts, but the rabbit crop is reported to be on the decline, which means that next year we may begin to increase again. We are still in contact with the south last winter, which caused a shortage of meat among the Dogrib Indians. Fort Rae, in particular, looking forward on this account. Otherwise the natives are in normal condition."

"Among the southbound passengers was Bishop Lumsden, of the English Church of Melville, who is coming out to be consecrated. Mr. A. J. Ball, who is in charge of the northern Indian agencies, will be coming out to the south next summer, all of whom were hopeful of finding something worth while in the mineral line."

"Southbound is calling for more passengers each year and a larger amount of freight was taken up this year than the boats have ever handled before. The country is still in its infant stage, and when its blunders are broken Edmonton will wish for a rail-way to McMurray more than it ever has before."

One of the oldest of the old-timers who pioneered in all Alberta, but the whole of Western Canada passed away on Sunday morning at the home of his son in Jasper. Arriving here in 1885, when a young man, he had been a member of the Hudson's Bay company and was practical manager of his home ever since. Many interesting tales has he told of the early days in Fort Edmonton, the place he is called. He rose in the service of the Hudson's Bay company from apprentice to foreman, and when he retired some few years ago was respected and admired by one and all with whom he came in contact. Mr. Sinclair married Miss Betsy Howland, daughter of one of the company's men, and Sinclair still survives his husband. There were no children. The funeral was held at the home of the deceased family in the wood. Burial was in the Edmonton cemetery.
